

Take a look at your new and improved Sun*Universal*Life statement

We've updated your statement with a brand new look. With these updates you can walk through the sections of your statement more easily. In addition, with updated, simple definitions, combined with a clear summary of your investment details, you can quickly see how your investment accounts are performing (if you have them).

What have we enhanced?

Your Sun*Universal*Life statement has many great features, including:

- handy definitions throughout your statement, of different terms that are used in your policy;
- a clear summary of your current coverage;
- information on your policy fund breakdown and current investment mix; and
- new information on your rate of return since your policy effective date.

We have also adjusted some of the sections on your statement. Sections you may be familiar with, like your 'Investment summary' and 'Investment account allocation', have been updated with new titles. However, all of the same important information is still included.

We've included these updates to clarify the information provided. These updates do not indicate changes to the policy. We've only updated your statement with a new look.
